

BONUS QUEST: SURRENDER THE COOKIES

BONUS
WORLD 4

Quest Objectives:

Earlier this semester, I asked you all to follow some of your favorite game companies and designers on Twitter. A part of ‘breaking in’ to the game design community involves literally investing yourself (algorithmically) in the places where designers discuss and share and communicate about game-related discourse. This quest is simple: in a 300ish-word post to your blog (OR an alternative ‘presentation’ to our Discord lobby) profile the Twitter account of one of the companies or designers you follow. Consider the following questions:

- Who are the people/companies they’re often in conversation with?
- How much of a following do they have? What are they using this platform for?
- Have they discussed games and game design? What’s something we can learn from them?
- What other accounts has Twitter recommended to you now that you’ve become ‘involved’?
- What surprised you?

Note: If this account was useful to you, consider posting it for the Share and Share Alike quest!
